

Shipbuilders Clean Up Christopher Newport Park in Honor of Earth Day

On April 22, approximately 150 Newport News Shipbuilding employees and family members teamed with the City of Newport News to clean up Christopher Newport Park in honor of Earth Day. Participants gathered trash and debris from the park's shoreline and also spread mulch in flowerbeds.

Environmental Engineering Manager Frank Thorn said that NNS has participated in Earth Day events for the past 20 years. "When the shipyard first began celebrating Earth Day, we handed out seeds for employees to plant," he said. "But for the past seven years, we've been teaming with the city to help clean Christopher Newport Park. Each year, the number of employees who come out to help has increased – and this year was no different."

NNS employee Thomas Turner (O46) brought his son to the family-friendly event. "I think Earth Day is a great opportunity to come out and see old co-workers and to bond with family members while also showing the city that we're not just shipbuilders, but neighbors in the community."

NNS employee Walter Mitchell (O39) also brought his three children to the cleanup event. "I want my kids to learn the importance of keeping the Earth clean," he said. "My hope is that if they learn these values early, they will continue the habits throughout their life..."

Employees Presented with Level One Awards for Ethical Behavior

Congratulations to the following employees who were recently awarded Level One Ethics awards for leading by example, demonstrating company values with an extraordinary behavior and displaying high standards of ethical behavior.

Aaron Arnett (X36) and Daryl Mixon (X36) were in the process of preparing a mobile crane for an operational checkout when they noticed that two pieces of the Certified Rigging Assemblies (CRA) had been disassembled. Both Arnett and Mixon knew that the disassembly of the pieces would void the certification of the CRA. They notified proper supervision so that the problem could be rectified.

Robert Davis (O15) and Walter Williams (O15) were traveling on a commercial flight for company business when a passenger aboard their plane became unconscious. Having first responder training, Davis and Williams responded and provided assistance to the passenger.

Donald "Keith" Ogburn (O46) prevented an unauthorized person from entering a Newport News Shipbuilding facility.

Foremen Complete FQS Proficiency Board

Five foremen completed the Foremen Qualification Standards (FQS) Proficiency Board held in March in the Management Development Center. FQS is a tool used by general foremen to mentor foremen so they can attain proficiency in common areas of leadership and management. An FQS Guide, which is presented to new foremen when they attend Enhancing Personal Leadership for New Supervisors, is used by their general foremen to track progress and establish a framework for successful performance.

General foremen recommend their foremen to appear before the Proficiency Board after they have attained proficiency on all of the tasks in the FQS Guide. The board evaluates the foreman's knowledge by asking questions about how they implement the desired behaviors on the job. The FQS process, including completing all of the tasks in the FQS Guide and successfully appearing before the board, is rigorous, and requires a significant investment in time from the foreman and general foreman.

All foremen who successfully completed the board were recognized with a unique FQS Coin and hard hat sticker. The next FQS Proficiency Board will be held in May.

HII Named Top Supporter of HBCUs

Huntington Ingalls Industries was recently named a top supporter of historically black colleges and universities (HBCUs) by Career Communications Group.

To be listed as a top supporter of HBCUs, companies and government entities are selected by the deans of engineering programs at the 15 HBCUs accredited by the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology. Deans consider these organizations' school support, including infrastructure modernization and enhancement, research and mentorship projects, participation on advisory councils, faculty development opportunities, scholarships, student projects, stipends, co-ops and career opportunities.

HII Announces Builder of New Family Health Center

On April 20, Huntington Ingalls Industries announced that Ritchie-Curbow Construction Company, Inc. has been awarded the contract to build the new HII Family Health Center at Newport News Shipbuilding. The health center, scheduled to open this fall on Washington Avenue between 45th and 46th streets in Newport News, will offer primary care, radiology, physical therapy, laboratory services and an on-site pharmacy for eligible NNS employees and their covered dependents.

“Newport News Shipbuilding is a driving force in our local economy, and all of our staff and vendors know friends and relatives who work there,” said Joseph C. Ritchie Jr., president of Ritchie-Curbow Construction. “Ritchie-Curbow Construction is honored to work with NNS to provide a quality health care facility at a convenient location to the shipyard employees, and we are looking forward to a great team relationship with NNS.”

The lot on Washington Avenue has been sectioned off to begin construction of the future health center. When complete, the 21,894 square foot facility will have 19 exam rooms in addition to five specialty exam rooms and two pediatric exam rooms. A section of the building will be dedicated to physical therapy, including five physical therapy exam rooms. Additionally, the building will have X-ray and chemistry labs and other rooms for education and meetings. The health center will also have an in-house, full-service pharmacy complete with drive-through service.

QuadMed, the company that will operate the HII Family Health Center, will be at NNS May 5-6 from 7 to 8 a.m. (3rd shift), noon to 1 p.m. (1st shift) and 2 to 3 p.m. to hold employee information sessions. Employees must receive pre-approval from their supervisor to flex the last 30 minutes of the session for day-shift employees. Registration is required via the Learning Exchange.

Union leadership has expressed interest in making the health center available to the represented population, and discussions have begun.

... and also teach their children.”

Environmental Engineer Dwain Jenkins Jr. helped to organize this year’s event. “Overall, I think the event was very successful,” he said. “It was a perfect day and a lot of employees came out to help with the cleanup effort. We were able to collect a lot of debris and spread 70 cubic yards of mulch.”

Jenkins added, “But in order to make a real difference, it is important that we treat every day as if it were Earth Day.”

Look for final cleanup numbers in a future edition of Currents. Earth Day Coloring Contest winners will be announced in the May 18 edition of Currents.

NNS Hosts Fourth Annual Egg Drop Competition

Newport News Shipbuilding partnered with Newport News Public Schools, Hampton City Schools and Williamsburg-James City County Public Schools on April 23 to host the fourth annual Egg Drop Engineering Competition for middle and high school students.

Approximately 70 students representing winning teams from local schools created capsules using materials such as paper cups, cardboard, newspaper and tape to hold their eggs. The middle school teams' eggs were dropped 12 feet onto asphalt; the high school teams' eggs were dropped 18 feet onto asphalt. Points were awarded based on egg integrity after the drop, cost of materials and presentations.

"This is our first time participating in such an event with NNS and my team was excited from the time they got in the car to travel to the event, throughout the event and on the way home," said Richard Aadahl, Tech Education teacher at Lafayette High School. "They won first place and are already plotting for next year,"

Winning teams included: Middle School Division: An Achievable Dream (third place), Crittenden (second place) and Booker T. Washington took first place for the third consecutive year. High School: Menchville (third place), Kecoughtan (second place) and Lafayette took first place. This was Lafayette's first year competing in the competition.

ISO Audits Planned

Newport News Shipbuilding will undergo a surveillance audit of its Environmental Management System (EMS) and its Quality Management System (QMS) April 27-29.

The American Bureau of Shipbuilding Quality Evaluations (ABS-QE) will conduct the surveillance audit. This audit will continue as an "integrated" approach in evaluating key areas of these two management systems. This means that personnel involved with discussions with the auditors will likely be questioned on both quality and environmental aspects of their work.

EMS Audit: Selected parts of the ISO standard 14001 will be audited. Employees may be stopped by auditors and interviewed about general awareness of the company's environmental policy or how their job could affect the environment. Employees can refer to their green ISO 14001 badge cards or the O27 Environmental, Health and Safety Yardnet website as a reminder of the shipyard's environmental policy.

NNS is looking forward to another successful audit to maintain the shipyard's ISO 14001 certification. NNS was originally awarded in 2003 and was renewed in 2006, 2009 and in 2012. For more information, contact Dwain Jenkins (O27) at 534-4066.

QMS Audit: The audit team will review work documents associated with many of the areas of the shipyard, including records for equipment calibration, training, production control, product testing, internal audits, and corrective and preventive actions. Auditors may also request to randomly interview employees in both nuclear and non-nuclear work areas about work procedures to evaluate their work practices, overall awareness of Newport News' quality management policies and the knowledge of the impact their work has. Employees should answer questions about how they normally accomplish their work.

During the last audit, several people and departments were asked about their work processes. Managers, general foremen and supervisors should emphasize to employees the importance of having knowledge of their work procedures and working to authorized procedures and drawings. A successful audit will maintain the shipyard's ISO 9001 certificate for the Quality Management System. The shipyard was first certified to ISO 9001 in 1993 and has renewed the certification every three years since.

Stoller Employee Visits Classrooms to Teach Students About Science

Each year, Communications and Environmental Education Manager Alana Jensen visits classrooms around Idaho with the mission of teaching students about science.

“I think the easiest way to (spread) the science out at the site is to do it through the kids,” Jensen said. “I think (then) they grow up learning that science is cool, it’s fun and it’s wonderful. Hopefully, we can instill that love for science early.”

Each year, Jensen visits roughly 12,000 students around the region, leading a series of traveling classroom presentations, which are part of the program’s mission to provide an education resource to schools, and bring science to the classroom, Jensen said.

Presentations can span a broad range of science topics. One day, students might be learning the ins and outs of southeastern Idaho insects. Another day, students might be waist deep in an introduction to radioactivity and radiation, or learning how a Global Position System works.

Funded by the Department of Energy, presentations are free-of-charge to schools and adapted to be grade-level appropriate. Jensen has been leading them for more than 14 years.

Visit www.postregister.com from a home computer to read the entire article about Jensen’s efforts.
