

NNS Lays Keel for Indiana

With more than 500 guests looking into a submarine unit as the ceremony backdrop, Newport News Shipbuilding celebrated the keel laying of Virginia-class submarine Indiana (SSN 789) on Saturday.

The submarine's sponsor is Diane Donald, wife of retired Adm. Kirkland Donald. As the keel authenticator, Donald chalked her initials onto a metal plate, which were welded into the plate by NNS welder Heather Johnson. The plate will be permanently affixed to the submarine, serving as a symbol of Donald's enduring relationship with the shipbuilders, the submarine and the crew.

"I am confident that the shipbuilders of Newport News and their partners at Electric Boat, along with the hundreds of suppliers that provide equipment and craftsmanship unmatched in the world, will extend their legacy of delivering the very best ship," she said.

Ceremony participants included Vice Adm. Michael J. Connor, commander, Submarine Forces; Stephen Trautman, deputy director, Naval Nuclear Propulsion Program; Matt Mulherin, president of NNS; and Jeffrey S. Geiger, president of General Dynamics Electric Boat.

Connor stressed the quality and importance of the Virginia-class program at NNS and Electric Boat. "We talk every six months now about yet another milestone in a record of producing submarines ahead of schedule, under cost, highest quality ever, as if it were easy," Connor said. "It's not easy. And as we go forward, if we're going to continue to do that, your effort here needs the support of the entire country in terms of steady predictable budgets."

The ceremony took place on Armed Forces Day, a holiday established by President Harry Truman for citizens to thank U.S. military...

... members for their service. In this spirit, Mulherin acknowledged how fitting it was to celebrate the submarine and its crew.

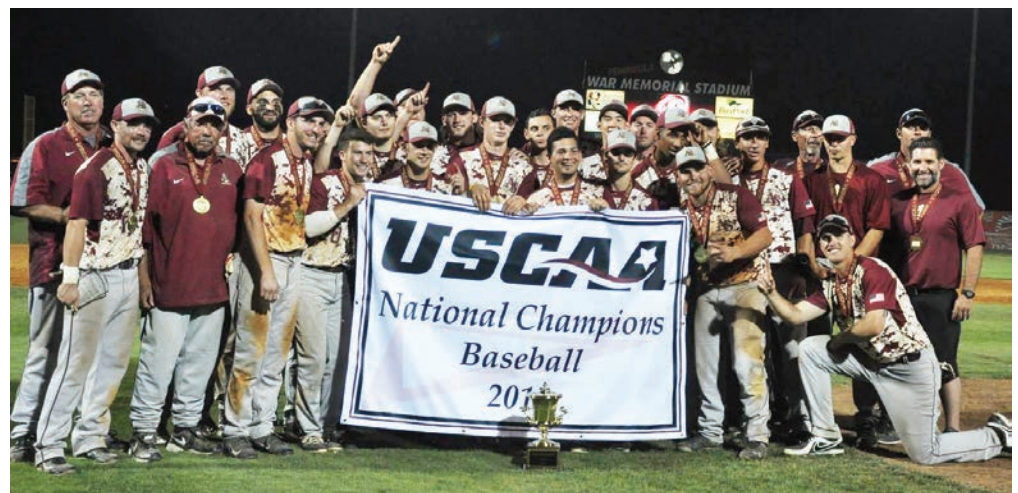

Mulherin highlighted the mindset and commitment that can be found among the Navy, shipbuilder and supplier team that builds Virginia-class submarines. "Together, we are delivering these boats ahead of schedule and under budget while continuing to find new and more innovative ways to build them, and we do it with the highest safety and quality standards," Mulherin said. "The Virginia-class program continues to be hailed as the nation's best shipbuilding program, and Indiana will continue that winning legacy."

Indiana will be the 16th Virginia-class submarine and the eighth submarine to be delivered by Newport News and the sixth of the Block III submarines. Construction began in September 2012, with 4,000 NNS shipbuilders contributing. The submarine is about 48 percent complete and on track for delivery in 2017. Visit www.huntingtoningalls.com/ssn789 for additional information about the keel laying ceremony. Check Yardnet this week for a highlights video of the ceremony and a photo slideshow.

Builders Win USCAA Small College World Series

On Saturday, May 16, The Apprentice School Baseball team earned the 2015 United States Collegiate Athletic Association National Championship with a 10-1 win over top-seeded Illinois Tech at War Memorial Stadium.

After going 1-1 in the first two days of the tournament, the Builders won their last five games including three in a row on Saturday. They defeated Penn State Greater Allegheny 4-1 to advance to the finals where they defeated Illinois Tech 25-10 and then 10-1. Apprentice Sam Massie earned Tournament MVP honors and was joined on the All-Tournament team by Lee Rossi, Taylor Gomer and Mike Brumfield. This is the second USCAA Championship for the Builders after winning it in 2007.

NNS shipbuilders place the SPS-48 air search radar to the top of the Nimitz-class aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln (CVN 72) island on May 6. U.S. Navy photo

Primary Air Search Radar Successfully Reinstalled on USS Abraham Lincoln

On May 6, USS Abraham Lincoln's (CVN 72) AN/SPS-48 primary air search radar antenna on Lincoln's island were successfully reinstalled.

Sailors and shipbuilders worked together to complete the two-day installation, assembling the components the first day and lifting the radar to the island the following day.

"Installing the radar on time is one of the most important measures taken in the refueling and complex overhaul process," said Lt. Loudon Westgard, a division officer assigned to the Combat Systems Department. "This was a major accomplishment, and the shipyard workers and sailors aboard Lincoln should be very proud of the progress they are making."

The AN/SPS-48 is a long-range, three-dimensional air search radar that allows for 360 degrees of coverage and the ability to detect the height of a target above the surface of the water. The radar system was deployed in the 1960s as the primary air search sensor for anti-aircraft warships and is the predecessor of the AEGIS system used currently on other Navy ships.

The SPS-48 antenna is now the second antenna to be installed on the Lincoln's island, which was enlarged during the overhaul. Over the next few months the Combat Systems Department along with Newport News Shipbuilding will continue to install additional antennas for navigational, communications and aircraft landing functions.

"Our goal as a department is to get the equipment back on board and return the Lincoln back as an operational warship," Westgard said. "The next few months will be a crucial time for us as the ship starts to bring the systems online and begin the testing process."

Employees Attend Environmental Symposium

Newport News Shipbuilding employees attended the 26th Annual Environment Virginia Symposium at Virginia Military Institute in Lexington, Virginia March 31 - April 2. The annual symposium is the largest environmental conference in Virginia and brings together more than 600 professionals from across the state for a chance to network and to share solutions and technologies that may help solve complex environmental challenges. During the conference, NNS shared information about challenges to meet regulatory requirements in the shipbuilding industry and NNS' Environmental programs in place to meet those challenges.

Kyle Madden (O27), Ann Pharr (N358), Dru Branche, director of NNS Environmental, Health and Safety, and Hogie Thorn, environmental engineering manager.

Career Pathways to Sponsor Several Summer Camps

Is your child interested in attending a STEM (science, technology, engineering and math) camp this summer? If so, consider the following camps that Newport News Shipbuilding employees will be involved in through the Career Pathways program. Read more information about each camp below.

Peninsula K-Next

Date: June 24-27

Age: Rising 7-10th grade students

Cost: $66

The camp is designed to inspire the next generation of inventors, engineers, manufacturers and entrepreneurs. Camp participants will explore computer numerical controlled programming and machines, plan and perfect a family of marketable products, visit automated manufacturing companies, compete in a “friendly” manufacturing competition, discover the world of the entrepreneur, while all the time emphasizing product creation, problem solving, critical thinking and team building.

Imagineering and Creative Technology

Date: July 20-25

Age: Rising 7-10th grade students

Cost: $77

The camp provides students an opportunity to explore the world of entrepreneurship from product concept to prototyping using in-depth CAD (computer assisted design) programs and 3D printing machines! Students develop a production plan and a business plan and have to prepare a presentation. On the final day of the camp, student “companies” are required to present their products to an “Angel Investors” team of judges in an effort to obtain funding for their product, similar to the “Shark Tank” TV program.

The Hover Games

Date: August 10-16

Age: 8-11th grade students

Cost: $88

This camp will focus on the building, programming and flying of a “quadcopter”, to include the possible design and manufacturing of parts using CAD and 3D printers. Besides visiting state-of-the-art companies operating in the world of unmanned aerial systems (drones!) - to include NASA Langley - students will have the opportunity to develop their skills to compete in the camp’s final competition, a “rodeo”.

Visit www.tncc.edu/workforce from a home computer or contact Bobby Perkins at 865-3122 for additional information about each camp.

NNS Employees Are Eligible for Patriotic Festival Sponsor's Discount

Newport News Shipbuilding will be at the annual Patriotic Festival May 29-31. In lieu of an air show, there will be a large military expo and vendors along the boardwalk. NNS will be located between 18th and 19th Street and will be giving away koozies, shoelaces and other fun items. This year's concert lineup includes Lee Brice & Chase Rice, Lynrd Skynyrd & Colt Ford, Andrew McMahon (from Jack's Mannequin and Something Corporate) and Alabama.

Shipbuilding Fun at Norfolk's Harborfest

Show your family, friends, co-workers, and everyone at Harborfest (June 6-7) that you are a shipbuilder. Build and captain your own boat for FREE at the 21st annual "Quick-n-Dirty Boatbuilding" contest event at Harborfest! The event is operated by the American Society of Naval Engineers and Sika Corp and Newport News Shipbuilding is a gold sponsor for this event. Employees interested in participating in this event should complete an entry form by Friday, May 22.
