

Warner Delivered

Newport News Shipbuilding delivered John Warner (SSN 785) to the U.S. Navy on June 25. Warner, the first Virginia-class submarine to be named for a person, was delivered two and a half months ahead of schedule.

“This submarine embodies the spirit of John Warner and symbolizes his unwavering support for the Navy and the shipyard,” said Jim Hughes, vice president of Submarines and Fleet Support. “It’s truly special to have a boat named after a living person, and we as shipbuilders are proud to deliver John Warner to the Navy because this submarine will continue Senator Warner’s enduring legacy.”

Nearly 4,000 shipbuilders have worked on the Warner since construction began in 2010.

NNS Breaks Ground for Joint Manufacturing Assembly Facility

Newport News Shipbuilding broke ground for its new Joint Manufacturing Assembly Facility (JMAF) on Monday, June 22. The new facility will be used to support construction of aircraft carriers and submarines.

The first phases of the facility, opening in 2017, will feature production bays to improve construction efficiencies under current contracts for the Gerald R. Ford-class aircraft carrier and Virginia-class submarine programs.

“We aren’t just breaking ground on a new facility, we’re breaking the mold on how we build aircraft carriers and submarines,” said NNS President Matt Mulherin, explaining how the JMAF will bring work indoors, providing better quality of life for shipbuilders. “The improvements will increase productivity and efficiency, all while driving down overall cost and ensuring schedule performance.”

The facility will feature multiple worksites, advanced technology, automated equipment, heavyweight cranes, large transportation doors and specialty paint bays. The facility will support current and future production work on aircraft carriers and submarines.

SHIPs Hosts Annual Summer Picnic

More than 150 SHIPs Network members and their families attended the SHIPs annual summer picnic Saturday, June 27 at Big Bethel Park in Hampton.

Attendees were met with a welcome tent, a bounce house, paddle boats, corn-hole games, water balloon tosses, and sack races and goodie bags for all of the kids and plenty of food. The Pavilion was decorated with a “beach theme” with uplifting music for the afternoon.

“This was my first SHIPs picnic and I had a blast, meeting a lot of new people and socializing outside of work with our families” said Wanda Mills (O63) SHIPs member.

SN3 to Continue Disposal Operations at Hanford Site

On June 29, Huntington Ingalls Industries announced that its Stoller Newport News Nuclear (SN3) subsidiary, together with contract partner Wastren Advantage Inc., was awarded a two-year extension to continue disposal operations at the Environmental Restoration Disposal Facility on the U.S. Department of Energy's Hanford Site in Washington. The total contract, valued at up to $65 million, will expire in September 2017. Washington Closure Hanford (WCH), the awarding agency, operates the Environmental Restoration Disposal Facility for the Department of Energy.

"We are extremely pleased the WCH has chosen to exercise the first option period of our contract," said SN3 President Nick Lombardo. "We believe this reflects the value we have provided to the Hanford Site for safe and compliant operations."

In the 1940s, the Hanford Site was used to produce plutonium for weapons production processes that left solid and liquid wastes, posing a risk to the local environment. In 1989, the Department of Energy, Environmental Protection Agency and Washington State Department of Ecology entered into a legally binding accord, the Tri-Party Agreement, to clean up the Hanford Site.

Since 2011, the 'Walk for Hannah' team has raised over $44,000 for the JDRE. The team started out raising money for the annual Yorktown diabetes walk, but kept the name and continues to use it for the annual golf tournament."

Shipbuilders Attend STIHL Learning Event

Several Newport News Shipbuilding employees attended a best practices learning event at STIHL in Virginia Beach earlier this year. The event was sponsored by the Association for Manufacturing Excellence (AME).

STIHL was the 2013 recipient of the AME Manufacturing Excellence Award. During the event, AME noted STIHL was a leader in the area of a continuous improvement system, focusing on the implementation of advanced technology, integration of automation, data systems, work instructions, signaling devices and steps toward the establishment of flow. Outstanding practices the committee focused on include the total-cost thinking used for new product and process development projects.

NNS employees had an opportunity to participate in a tour of the facility and benchmark best practices. Participants also learned about STIHL's engagement practices.

"Sharing of best practices in organizations is key for of manufacturing professionals so that North American manufacturing may become more competitive," said Kim Humphrey (O51), AME Southeast Region director. "The event was well-organized, very interesting and very informative. I will be able to use the input I learned at STIHL when visiting my suppliers."

AME will sponsor additional opportunities this year. For more information, contact Kim Humphrey at 375-9854 or visit www.ame.org.

NNS Planning Bid for Navy LDUUV Contract

Inside Defense reported June 22 that Newport News Shipbuilding is planning to bid for the U.S. Navy's Large Displacement Unmanned Undersea Vehicle (LDUUV) contract. The story cited Ken Mahler, Newport News' vice president of Navy Programs, who touted the Proteus UUV built by HII's Undersea Solutions Group subsidiary.

"We're looking to leverage that ... with this Large Displacement Unmanned Underwater Vehicle request for proposals that we expect to come out," he said.
