Navy Crew Moves Aboard Gerald R. Ford (CVN 78)

On Monday, Aug. 3, members of the Gerald R. Ford's (CVN 78) crew moved aboard the aircraft carrier and ate its first meal prepared in the galley. Ship's Sponsor Susan Ford Bales traveled to Newport News Shipbuilding to congratulate shipbuilders and crew on the milestone.

"This is a rewarding time for the shipbuilders who have worked for the past six years to complete the systems and compartments needed to support the crew as they move aboard," said Rolf Bartschi, vice president of

CVN 78 Carrier Construction. "The ship we are building will be their home and will serve the Navy and the nation's need in defense of our country for the next 50 years."

Ford Bales helped serve a meal of prime rib, crab legs, shrimp, salmon and a 7-foot-long cake made to look like an aircraft carrier. The galley and associated messing areas were redesigned for Gerald R. Ford and future Ford-class carriers, offering a new layout that provides more space and greater efficiency for sailors as they prepare for...

SN3 Awarded a Contract from University of Chicago Argonne National Laboratory

Huntington Ingalls Industries announced that its subsidiary, Stoller Newport News Nuclear (SN3), has been awarded a 3-year contract from the University of Chicago Argonne National Laboratories.

According to the contract, SN3 will provide expertise and professional support services on an ongoing basis as needed. The Facilities Management and Services, Office of Project Management, Excess Facilities Program at Argonne National Laboratory (Argonne) requires support to facilitate Argonne's efforts to complete a Site-wide Radiological and Nuclear Facility Characterization. The effort requires support for work orders of varying duration and measurement significance. Support includes both field measurements and robust reporting utilizing strong quality control.

"We are extremely pleased that Argonne has selected SN3 for this contract and look forward to continuing to support Argonne in their mission," said Nick Lombardo, president of SN3. "This is another excellent opportunity for SN3 to reach back and utilize the skills of the highly trained and qualified shipyard personnel to provide support for our DOE [Department of Energy] clients."

Visit sn3.huntingtoningalls.com for additional information about SN3.

The Communications Division will be giving away five pairs of tickets to the Sam Hunt concert at Langley Speedway on Thursday, Sept. 17. Tickets will be given away via the HII Facebook page over the next few weeks. "Like" the HII Facebook page so you don't miss out.

...meals. The serving lines and messing areas are arranged to offer significant quality-of-life improvements compared to Nimitz-class carriers.

“This is the tipping point for Ford,” said Capt. John F. Meier, CVN 78’s commanding officer. “Currently pier-side in Newport News, we have water under our hull, and 1,600-plus sailors are eating, sleeping and working aboard. Our crew is fully aligned with Newport News Shipbuilding in executing the test program to deliver Gerald R. Ford next spring.”

Ford is designed to house a crew of up to 4,660 sailors who will benefit from quality-of-life improvements in the ship’s design. Compared to Nimitz-class carriers with berthing units that sleep up to 200 sailors, Ford will have quieter berthing areas sleeping no more than 86 people. Each berthing features an adjoining washroom. Sailors will also have access to separate recreation areas, multiple gymnasiums and more air conditioning. Visit www.thefordclass.com for additional information on CVN 78 and Ford-class carriers.

HII employees and their dependents can submit up to two original photos per person for consideration. The photos should feature local geography outside the shipyard – without people. A selection committee will choose photographs to be printed, framed and displayed throughout the center.

Photos can be submitted through Aug. 19 via email or mail. Emailed entries should be sent as a high resolution (eight megapixels or higher) JPEG file to ComingSoon-NNS@quadmedical.com. Printed photos should be sent to: QuadMed, Attn: HII Photo Contest, N53 W24700, Corporate Circle, Sussex, WI 53089. Mailed photos will not be returned to the sender, so employees are encouraged to make copies as necessary before submittal. Meier, Ship’s Sponsor Susan Ford Bales and the ship’s crew during crew move aboard festivities onboard the ship Aug. 3. Photo by John Whalen

Shipbuilder Recognized with “On-the-Spot” Ethics Award

On July 28, Ray Bagley, vice president of Trades Operations, presented John Kitchens (X18) with an Ethics “On-the-Spot” trophy for his suggestions on improving signage in the North Yard. Kitchens informed leadership that the signage along the roadway, leading into the North Yard inspection station provided poor navigation due to signs being bent and flattened.

RESETTING THE BUSINESS

Preparing for our Future

Newport News Shipbuilding
A Division of Huntington Ingalls Industries

August 10, 2015

Dear Shipbuilders:

I am writing you today with an update on our cost reduction initiatives. Let me first start by thanking you for your continued focus on your job responsibilities. I know this is a stressful time, and I appreciate all you are doing to remain engaged on performance.

With regards to layoffs, we still expect about 500 employees to be impacted this year, based upon the most recent labor demand forecast information. For those employees who are affected, our Human Resources team will provide the following transition assistance services:

- Resume writing workshops
- Job search strategy workshops
- Interviewing workshops
- One-on-one career counseling
- External company job fairs

Detailed information about these services will be provided to each affected employee.

In the coming weeks, my leadership team will also begin providing information about changes we are making to help streamline our business, reduce management layers, and reduce cost. As decisions are made, information will be cascaded.

Finally, I am including responses to new questions that have been asked over the past few weeks. Please continue to ask questions, and try not to be distracted by speculation and rumors. We will continue to keep you informed as any additional decisions are made.

Sincerely,

Matt Mulherin
President

Updated Frequently Asked Questions

Q: When and if the work load picks back up and people are going to be needed, will there be a recall of those laid off before new hires are taken?

A: Represented employees are covered under a collective bargaining agreement with the United Steelworkers. Certain hourly employees have 24 months of recall rights under that agreement. Layoffs or Reductions in Force (RIF) are typically permanent separations from the company. However, as previously communicated we are hopeful that work will pick back up in the next 18 to 24 months. Thus, eligible hourly employees will be recalled if work picks back up within the 24 month period following their layoff. Salaried employees do not have to wait to be recalled. They are welcome to apply at any time to job postings as they become available, and they will be considered for rehire based on their experience, skills, qualifications, and candidate pool.

Q: Will the company offer another special voluntary severance program similar to the one offered this past January?

A: The company currently has no plans to offer another voluntary severance program. We just completed our voluntary severance program for salaried employees earlier this year, with most employees departing on April 17. This action helped to lessen the overall impact of layoffs.

Q: Would a temporary reduction in salary or part-time employment be an option to being laid off?

A: No, the company is not currently considering temporary reductions in salary positions or dropping people from full-time to part-time employment status.

Q: Will an option be made available to “retire” if an employee is selected for layoff?

A: Employees who receive layoff notices and who are retirement eligible will have the option to initiate their retirement through the HII Benefits Center.

Q: Are leased employees/contractors included in the approximate numbers given of employees to be laid off?

A: No. Leased employees and subcontractors are not included in the approximate number of NNS employees that may be impacted by a future reduction in force.

Q: Will the individual employees being laid off be given the 60-day notice, or will this notice be more general for anyone in certain positions who may be impacted? How will the notice be delivered?

A: A 60-day notice will be personally given to each affected employee, on an individual basis.

Q: If an employee is laid off in their 12-month window, will they be required to payback tuition monies?

A: No, employees who are part of the workforce reduction will not be required to pay back tuition reimbursement monies for expenses incurred in the previous 12 months.

Q: Will Master Shipbuilders and Apprentice Graduates be affected by the reduction?

A: Potentially. There are no employees at NNS exempted from consideration for layoffs.

Q: Given the current events in our country where violence is on the rise, mixed with the varied emotions of people who have lost their livelihood, my team would like to know what the company is going to do with regard to keeping our employees safe during this period.

A: The safety and well-being of our employees is of paramount importance. Our Security and HR professionals are aware of this concern and have plans and are trained to provide for the protection and safety of all our employees. Employees who have wider concerns should raise those with their immediate supervisors or call 380-4031. For emergencies, employees should call *911 or 380-2222. Regarding our fellow employees who will be impacted by the layoff, the company will be providing them with extensive outplacement services to assist them in obtaining alternate employment, and our Employee Assistance Program (EAP) will also be available for all employees and their managers during this difficult time.

Q: Will any of the rotation programs be impacted by cut backs?

A: There is no direct impact anticipated at this time to the employee development rotation programs. However, given budget constraints and the need to find cost reductions, some rotation opportunities may be ended earlier than initially expected or may not be as frequent. On the other hand, opportunities for rotation in some areas could increase since hiring will be severely restricted during the next 18 months. At this time, there is no way to predict how all departments will individually react.

Q: Are there any plans to do away with the current/future domestic partner benefits based on our cost reduction efforts?

A: No, there are no plans to change these benefits at this time.

Q: So far what I have seen impacts the general population of the NNS workers. What is senior management giving up? Will we continue to maintain the same number of VP's and directors even though our workforce has been significantly reduced?

A: Senior leadership is participating in the same reductions as all salaried employees. They are not receiving merits, they are losing one holiday, and they are subject to the same restrictions on tuition reimbursement. Directors and vice presidents are already prohibited from receiving premium pay. We are currently reviewing all divisions and associated organizational structures to determine whether layers of management can be eliminated and/or if management spans of control can be increased. This review includes all levels of management positions throughout the company, including directors and vice presidents.

Q: I understand why the layoffs are necessary since they are directly impacted by the work valley. However, I don't understand why the other cost reduction measures are necessary, because they are overhead expenses. To my understanding, these costs should already be negotiated in the contracts that are currently in place or future contracts, and wouldn't be impacted by the work valley. Please help me to understand how the work valley impacts these overhead costs.

A: The total cost of our products is made up of direct labor, direct material, and indirect costs (overhead), and we strive to keep these elements in balance as circumstances change. Generally speaking, we can only afford to spend a certain amount of overhead for a given amount of direct labor. The reduction in workload means overhead costs must be reduced as well.

Q: We understand that the TAP and the hourly ERP awards are not being changed, but how about the MOE and other awards?

A: We expect to continue to honor and recognize shipbuilders who demonstrate exemplary performance and service. We plan to continue MOE Awards, Master Shipbuilder Awards, and Excellence in Action (EIA) Awards during 2016 and 2017. However, along with our focus on cost reduction, we are reviewing the costs associated with these award programs and may make some changes.

Q: Will there be restructuring taking place to ensure that we don't have directors (with less than 15 people under them), reporting to another director? Or will someone be looking at the fact that we have manager2's and 3's, and even construction supervisors with zero direct reports?

A: We are currently reviewing all divisions and associated organizational structures to determine whether layers of management can be eliminated and/or if management spans of control can be increased. This review includes all levels of management positions throughout the company, including directors and vice presidents.
