

Material Handling Steel Storage Crane Team Recognized for Safety Efforts

Newport News Shipbuilding's Material Handling Steel Storage Crane team (O53) was recognized by leadership Dec. 8 for their ongoing safety efforts. To celebrate, the Pink team held a "Pinkout," or a pink-themed luncheon.

"Today' we're here to celebrate you and the tremendous milestone you all have accomplished together as a team," said Material Handling Supervisor Eden Jones. "I've only been your supervisor since Oct. 1, but I have so much respect for what you all do – and in all weather conditions. You all are constantly looking out for one another and that has played a large role in your ability to remain safe." The team has been accident-free for 1,200 consecutive days.

Terry Voltz, director of Material Distribution, also congratulated the team. "This is a significant achievement by the crane and forklift teams," he said. "A lot of teamwork went into being able to reach this milestone. I'm excited to see what the future holds for this team."

Rigger Floyd Foster believes that Take 5s have played a critical role in the team's ability to remain accident-free. "Take 5 gives us a chance to...

CVN 65 Shipbuilders Participate in "Shipbuilder Strong" Day

X43 Shipbuilders working on defueling of USS Enterprise (CVN 65) held a "Shipbuilder Strong" Day in October. Both first and second shift teams gathered on the main deck of Enterprise to perform simple exercises with "Shipbuilder Strong" coordinators. Newport News Shipbuilding first began...

Towed Array: A Research and Development Improvement

"The towed array sonar is one of the most important pieces of equipment on a submarine, and the Navy requested Newport News Shipbuilding's help to make the system more durable," said Tom Ruzic, engineer.

Submarines pull a thin towed array sonar from the back of the ship with a cable allowing it to extend past the boat. It acts like a set of ears and listens for other ships that may be in the area. The cable is handled by a reel device called a capstan which pulls the cable in and pushes it out.

NNS was funded to work with the Naval Undersea Warfare Center and a United Kingdom vendor on an alternate design for the capstan. The goal of the research and development (R&D) project was to replace current pinch rollers, which squeeze the cable as it moves, with a smooth belt to lessen the chance of damage.

NNS' team consisted of members from Submarine Machinery Engineering, Program Operations, Contracts and Pricing, Supply Chain Procurement, Technology Development and Internal Compliance. Each team member played a vital role from working with a foreign vendor on design, development and testing, to tracking financial data and purchasing the equipment.

Testing of the redesign is now complete and the Navy has requested NNS purchase 12 capstans to be installed on in-service Los Angeles-class submarines.

"Through this project NNS was able to show capabilities and strengths in engineering integration, technical project management and teaming with foreign vendors. Our success in execution could lead to various opportunities, including future Navy funded R&D work," said Tina Stimson, submarine mechanical engineer.

Employees Presented 2015 Intellectual Property Awards

Twelve employees received invention/new technology awards during the company's Intellectual Property Awards Luncheon on Monday, Dec. 7. Award recipients disclosed (via the US Patent process) eight new and useful inventions in 2015 that will support current and future company business.

"As part of Newport News Shipbuilding's efforts to continue building and recognizing a culture of innovation, we are going to make this an annual event," said Don Hamadyk, director of Innovation & Engineering Solutions. "The need for this kind of thought leadership to help meet our customers' and our company's challenges has never been greater. We hope bringing attention to your accomplishments this year will encourage other employees across the company to think outside-thebox and find ways to do their jobs better and more cost-effectively."

NNS' Chief Engineer Charles Southall congratulated awardees. "I'm proud to be here today to celebrate your accomplishments," he said. "Innovation differentiates NNS from other companies and each of you in the room today has played a large role in those technological advancements. Congratulations."

Congratulations to the following awardees. ... the "Shipbuilder Strong" Program in January 2015. Since then, the program coordinators have been working one-on-one and with groups of employees to help them understand the importance of prioritizing their health on the job as well as at home.

"The goal of the day was to teach employees some exercises that can help them," said Program Manager Chrissie Riese. "Health is not an off the clock concept, nor is it something that should be neglected during work hours. We've learned that exercising promotes circulation and recovery, which in turn makes the day's work easier on the body. Incorporating just five minutes of stretching at the beginning of the shift can make a huge difference in how someone feels and we want to encourage everyone to give it a try."

Thomas Carter (X43) took part in the exercises. "I perform my exercises daily first thing in the morning," he said. "I follow the 'Shipbuilder Strong' handout and also some extra exercises. My body can definitely tell if I have missed a day. I support the daily exercises and encourage others to do so as well. It truly benefits performance of your job."

Shipbuilders were encouraged to wear pink to show their support for National Breast Cancer Awareness Month.

"Breast cancer is something near and dear to my heart," Christopher Harriman (X43) added. "My grandmother had breast cancer causing her to have surgery to remove it. She suffered many years before passing in 2013. I recently attended the Susan G. Komen walk with friends and family in Virginia Beach in honor of my grandmother."

The CVN 65 team believes the "Shipbuilder Strong" day was a huge success and plans to make the day an annual event.

Meet NNS' Pad Crew

At Newport News Shipbuilding, pre-assemblies, sub-assemblies and final assemblies are being lifted, transported and erected around-theclock. In order for this to occur, the majority of assemblies must have lifting pads installed on them – this responsibility falls under NNS' Pad Crew, which consists of four employees.

"We install the pads and cover areas from the South Yard to the North Yard," said X36 Foreman William Watson III. "We plan and install lifting pads on units that don't have engineered drawings. Our main focus is to plan and pad the assemblies so that the crane team can make a safe and successful lift."

Crane Rigger Jerry Robinson, who has spent more than half of his 20-year shipbuilding career as a member of the crew, added, "The lifting pads we install serve two main purposes – they are used to lift the assemblies and move the units from one location to another or to erect the unit onto the ship. Typically, we install two to eight lifting pads per assembly by tack welding, depending on what the next customers' needs are."

Tack welder James Cole says that the most important part of the job is ensuring that the pads are installed properly by procedure. "To be sure of this, we have to obtain a weight and center of gravity report from our E42 engineers, make sure we know the preheat requirements prior to tack welding , use the correct filler metal and always keep safety first. Most people would assume that a lifting pad should be installed in each corner, but unfortunately it's not that easy."

Alvin Flegler added, "A lot of work goes into planning and determining where a lifting pad can be installed. Some of the contributing factors include: which crane will lift the assembly, how the assembly will be lifted once the unit gets to its final destination, will the assembly require flipping, will the pad require backup structure and will the installation of the lifting pads satisfy all customers." A lot of math is also involved in the overall planning from start to finish.

Crane Rigger Mark Taylor and James Coles believe first-time quality and safety are extremely important to the team. "Getting the job done right the first time is key to what we do," Taylor said. "Because our team is so small, we don't really have time to go back and perform rework. Safety is our number one core value. Because we are constantly changing environments, it's important that we remain focused on safety at all times."

The team has been accident-free since March of 2013.

"I'm proud of this team and the fine work they do every day in always building good ships," said Watson. "I have been a part of the lifting pad installation process the entire 28 years I have been employed at NNS. My team and I take pride in this everyday."

AROUND THE YARD

Reminder: How to Report an Emergency Versus a Non-Emergency

To report an emergency, dial *911 from any Newport News Shipbuilding phone or 380-2222 when using a cell phone. For non-emergencies, employees should call 380-4031.

Winter Months Introduce Security Obstacles

Newport News Shipbuilding Security Officers are responsible for the identification of all individuals on company property at all times. As the peak of the winter approaches and additional clothing is needed to stay warm, employees should adhere to the following measures:

- Ensure that you comply with policy NN 12-202, Access to Company Premises and wear your company ID badge on the outer garment, upper front portion of your body when entering a turnstile or door card reader. The badge should remain visible at all times until you exit the facility.
- Remove all garments that cover your face to enable positive identification, especially when an officer approaches you or when you are entering the facility or outlying building

Following these measures will not only mitigate false identification, but it will also reduce the chances for delays when entering and exiting company facilities.

Join the Health Fit Family Challenge

Who says getting fit can't be a family affair? Join the Interactive Health Fit Family Challenge in January to help you and your family develop healthy lifestyles to last all year long! This 10week program provides weekly tips and goals to help you develop healthy eating, exercise, and wellness habits that benefit the whole family. You may participate as an individual or a group. The Top Team and Individual with the most points earned will be awarded prizes!

Report Suspicious Behavior To Your Management.

Security and Emergency Management Encourages Employees to Watch Security Video

As safety and security continue to be the No. 1 priority at Newport News Shipbuilding, Security and Emergency Management encourages all employees to review the "Run, Hide, Fight" DVD sent to the homes of all employees last year from HII President and CEO Mike Petters about developing a "survival mindset." The DVD also featured on the Security and Emergency Management website. As always, please report any suspicious behavior to the Security Command Center at 380-4031.

Access Center Closure Dec. 16

The Access Center in Bldg. 625 closes every day from noon to 12:30 p.m. Once a year, the center closes for an hour for system maintenance. The maintenance for this year is scheduled for Wednesday, Dec. 16 from noon to 1 p.m. For questions, contact Jay Stefanick, Security and Emergency Management, at 688-0894.

Holiday Opportunities with VERG

Are you interested in hosting a military member during the holiday season? The Veterans Employee Resource Group (VERG) Board has several opportunities for shipbuilders to open their homes to military members not able to be with family during the holidays. Employees who would like to participate in hosting a military member during the holidays, send an email to verg@hii-nns.com.

Congratulations to Level 2 On-the-Spot Ethics Award Winners

Listed below are the most recent winners of the On-the-Spot Ethics Recognition Program Award. The purpose of the program is for employees to recognize other employees who demonstrate ownership of company values and high standards of ethical behavior in their everyday work activities. Congratulations to: Marc LeBouton (E22), Serjio Vargas (O53), Mike Connly (T55), Joseph Roy (X36), Michael Williams, Sr. (X36) and Dwight Cantela (X36).

Want to nominate a fellow employee? Complete the nomination form (C-941) and return it to Catrina Hagwood (O18) in Bldg. 500-1.

Be Cyber Cautious

With the holiday season in full effect, Newport News Shipbuilding's Cybersecurity Department (T51) would like to remind all employees to follow the safety tips below to keep company, as well as personal, information and assets safe.

- Set strong passwords and don't share them with anyone.
- Keep your operating system, browser and other critical software optimized by installing updates.
- Maintain open dialogue with your family, friends and community about Internet safety.
- Limit the amount of personal information you post online and use privacy settings to avoid sharing widely.
- Be cautious about what you receive or read online. If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is.
- Be careful where and what you click on in your email and on the Internet.
- Send suspicious emails received on the Newport News Shipbuilding Network to spam@hii-nns.com.

... remind ourselves not to become complacent and it also sets the tone for the entire day," he said. "It also gives us an opportunity to have a discussion around near-misses and discuss ways that we can prevent those from happening in the future."

Master Shipbuilder and Crane Operator Carl Brown is proud of the team's accomplishment. "The best way to describe our team is that everyone is everyone's best friend," he said. "On average, we lift 50 lifts per day. Every lift poses a potential accident and we are always looking out for each other and for other people who might not be aware that a crane is in motion. We want everyone to go home the same way they came into work, so it's important that we have each other's back."

Have You Seen the Pink Shed by 46th Street Gate?

Many shipbuilders have noticed the "Pink shed" located at the bottom of the 46th Street Gate. This shed is office to the O53 PINK Team's, Steel Storage Supervisor Eden Jones.
