Shuttle Drivers Keep Shipbuilders Moving

Many Newport News Shipbuilding employees depend on the company's shuttle service to get to and from their work sites every day. The shipbuilders who pilot the shuttle service's buses and vans are unsung heroes at NNS, according to Matt Needy, vice president of Operations.

"You play an extremely important role in terms of getting people to and from their jobs safely," he told shuttle drivers during a meeting Tuesday, Jan. 30. Needy thanked the drivers for their commitments to safety and service, as well as the positive attitudes they present to employees. "You are the first face of the shipyard that many people see every day, and I have received many unsolicited positive comments about the work you all do."

Facilities Director Jim O'Brien said he has taken rides on shuttles to see what drivers and riders experience. "I want to thank you personally for what I've seen," he told drivers. "I'll continue to get out there to ride the buses and see what's going on with the parking lots as we continuously try to make improvements for everybody."

As the company works toward short- and long-term employee parking solutions, shuttle drivers will continue to play an integral role at the shipyard.

Many shuttle drivers – like Michael Abrams (O43) – drive before and after their regular NNS shifts. "It's very interesting. You deal with a lot of challenges. We look out for the safety of passengers, pedestrians and other drivers on the road. We all try to work together as a team and help people as best we can," he said. "We want to make sure everybody gets to work safely and on time."

Internship Program Application Deadline Approaching

Newport News Shipbuilding Talent Acquisition is accepting applications for the 2018 Summer Internship program through Feb. 12. Internships are available at NNS and Huntington Ingalls Industries' corporate office for college students enrolled in bachelor's or master's degree programs in business, computer science, engineering or information technology.

To qualify, students must have a minimum 3.0 cumulative GPA. Students will work full-time, 40 hours per week, for a minimum of 10 weeks during the summer months.

For more information, search the "Students & New Graduates" portal of the HII Careers website (www.buildyourcareer.com) for Job 20313BR.

Training the Trainers

Four shipbuilders – representing different departments – make up the inaugural cohort of Instructor Development and Certificate Program (IDCP) certified instructors at Newport News Shipbuilding.

"Several years ago, we started looking at how to create a more formalized and consistent training program for our instructors, regardless of where they work in the company," said IDCP Manager Susan Goss. The NNS-piloted IDCP is the result.

Christopher Metcalf (O39), Benjamin Smail (O22), Michelle Avery (O25) and David Hewlett (E86) have successfully...

The drivers' devotion doesn't go unnoticed by riders. "I can't begin to tell you how much we appreciate each and every driver," said shuttle rider Sherri Christensen (K45). "It's very obvious they are dedicated to the safety of the people they are transporting."

Shuttle rider Jane Tawney (O93) said NNS' shuttle drivers "do their best to look after and accommodate riders. They are truly appreciated."

New Vice President and Chief Counsel Named

Jonathan A. Arena will succeed Jim Gildea as vice president and chief counsel of Newport News Shipbuilding. Gildea has served in the role since 2011 and will retire April 1 after 23 years of service to Huntington Ingalls Industries and NNS.

HII Executive Vice President and General Counsel Kellye Walker announced Arena's selection Friday, Feb. 2.

Arena comes from Boeing, where he has served as senior counsel, Boeing Global Services, since 2015. At NNS, he will be responsible for providing legal advice and counsel to senior management and overseeing and coordinating the provision of legal advice.

Black History Month: Cassandra Joe

Newport News Shipbuilding is celebrating Black History Month in February. As part of NNS' company-wide Inclusion and Diversity campaign, four employees are featured on posters recognizing the month. Articles about these shipbuilders will be published in Currents, the NNS to Go app, MyNNS and on social media each week in February.

Growing up attending ship ceremonies and listening to her father tell stories about the shipyard, Cassandra Joe (O43) knew from a young age that she was destined to become a shipbuilder.

So following her graduation from Huntington High School in 1971, it only seemed natural for Joe to begin applying for jobs at the shipyard. "It took me six years to finally get hired, but I was determined that nothing was going to stand in my way," she said. "I came in as a fuser in the LNG (liquefied natural gas) tanker program and stayed until the program was discontinued. Then I was transferred to the carrier program as a welder, before eventually making my way to the Maintenance Department – where I remain today."

Known to her coworkers as "Little Joe," she is responsible for performing crane and yard maintenance throughout the company's 550-acre campus. "I've been on every crane in this shipyard from 'Big Blue' to the smaller cranes in shops," Joe said.

Today, she is the only female in her crew of 12 – and is also the longest serving African American female Master Shipbuilder in her department. "I consider myself a living legacy of the many contributions African American women have made to our society and the shipyard," Joe said. "I feel like I've left my mark on the shipyard and have also been a role model for those following in my footsteps."

When asked to sum up her 41-year career in one word, she said: proud.

"I'm proud of my work, the people I work with – and our ships," Joe said. "I'm also proud of the life I've built as a result of the shipyard. As a single mom, I've been able to provide for my family and send both of my children to school."

Joe is also proud to have witnessed a lot of change – both nationally and at Newport News Shipbuilding. "I've witnessed the election of the first African American president – and at the shipyard, I've witnessed the promotion of the first African American vice president and the election of our company's first female president – all things that make me proud."

Though close to retirement, Joe is excited for the future. "With different generations, backgrounds, races and skillsets working together – the future is bright," she said. "I've always believed that if you have a big heart and treat everyone with respect – the rest will take care of itself. When this happens, people are able to come together as one and think big, dream big and do big."

On-the-Spot Ethics Awards Announced

The following shipbuilders were recently honored with Level Two On-the-Spot Ethics Awards: Lindsay Lawson (X20), Sherri Christensen (K45), Matthew Hankins (O69), Ebone Ricks (T54) and Pernell Williams (X47).

To nominate a fellow employee, submit form C-941 to the Ethics Office, Dept. O18, Bldg. 500-1.

Submit Manufacturing Technology Proposals

Do you have a project idea for Research and Development? Newport News Shipbuilding has begun a continuous call for proposals.

Ideas can be submitted at any time by visiting the R&D Ideation website. The current campaign is for Manufacturing Technology (ManTech) ideas and will run through May 4. Any research ideas that support improved manufacturing cost, schedule and safety should be submitted for the ManTech funding consideration.

If you have questions or need assistance in submitting your idea, contact Tammy Rossi (E30) at 688-4664.

Calibration Services Has Moved

Calibration Services has moved to a new location in Bldg. 4931. Customers should use the entrance at the northeast corner of the building. For more information, call 688-8341.

Annual NNS 5K Fun Run/Walk Scheduled for May

The 11th Annual Newport News Shipbuilding 5K Fun Run/Walk will be held at 9 a.m. Saturday, May 19, at Victory Landing Park. Registration, which opens March 19, is $10 for adults and $7 for youth ages 12 and under. This is a fun run and will not be officially timed.

Training the Trainers

...completed the program, which aims to equip instructors with the skills and knowledge to facilitate effective, efficient and engaging workforce development, procedural and regulatory training.

“Sometimes I don’t think people realize the impact that you have when you’re in front of a group of learners,” Avery said. “It’s a huge responsibility, and this program has really allowed us to understand the knowledge and skills that we need to help the learners, and that’s really what it’s about.”

The program is broken into two phases. During Phase One, or the Development Phase, participants attend courses — online and in person — to learn and hone skills within nine instructor competencies. After completing Phase One, instructors can apply for Phase Two, or the Certificate Phase. During the Certificate Phase, a comprehensive exam, observations of instructing classes and an oral board are used to validate participants’ skills and knowledge.

After successfully completing the Certificate Phase, participants become IDCP certified instructors. Instructor certificates are valid for two years, and holders can maintain a valid certificate by earning continuing training units.

Hewlett said the program is beneficial to any instructor who is looking for a challenge. “If you’re not going to take on the challenge for yourself, think about your learners,” he said. “Our trades deserve the best instruction, and I think this company has some of the best instructors and training available in the industry. But this will make it better.”

Watch a participant describe the program in a video on MyNNS. For more information, visit the IDCP SharePoint site.

Hampton Mayor to Speak at Black History Month Event

The African American Shipbuilders Association (AASA) will host its annual Black History Month Celebration from 4 until 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 22, in the James River Room in Bldg. 520-6.

The theme for this year's event is "The Strength of Unity." Hampton Mayor Donnie Tuck will be the guest speaker, and artwork from Newport News shipbuilders and family members will be on display. All shipbuilders are invited to attend.

For additional information about the event and the AASA employee resource group, visit AASA's website.

Video Services Outage Notice

Newport News Shipbuilding’s training and communications video service, Qumu, is unavailable from 5:30 until 6:30 a.m. on weekdays for system maintenance until further notice. During this time, internal training and communications videos are not accessible. For more information, call 688-HELP.

Recycle Toner and Cartridges

Shipbuilders are reminded to recycle used toner and consumable cartridges. The company gets a credit for recycling, and Xerox staff will pick up used containers that are left by the device. To schedule a pickup, call 688-2723.

MAY 19

The 2018 NNS Submarine Program Golf Classic will be held at 1 p.m. at Cypress Creek Golfer's Club. This is a four-person, Captain's Choice tournament. The cost is $80 per person ($320 per team). Tournament proceeds will benefit the nonprofit Stop Soldier Suicide and the Virginia Peninsula Foodbank. For more information, contact Johnny Mintz (X67) at 688-5031 or 880-8965.

Systems Engineering Sponsoring Certificate Program

Systems Engineering Departments E47 and T55 are sponsoring a systems engineering certificate program that also supports certification as an International Council on Systems Engineering (INCOSE) Certified Systems Engineering Professional (CSEP).

The certificate program is designed to enable engineers and business professionals — regardless of undergraduate discipline — to develop the analytical abilities needed to design, evaluate, and manage complex systems involving many components and demanding specifications. This on-site training program is eligible for the NNS Educational Assistance program.

Seats are available and open to any NNS employee. This program takes approximately 11 months to complete, and consists of four courses. Upon completion of the program, participants can attend a capstone prep course for the CSEP exam. Shipbuilders interested in taking advantage of this unique opportunity should contact Bill Olson (E47) at 688-8726.
